

TO OUR READERS:

We regret the delay of the publication of this newsletter due to a period of reorganization of SAIIC. We have been very active promoting the Indian Visitors Program, and expanding the coverage of news about Indian people in Latin America.

SAIIC's goals are to promote peace and social justice for Indian people. SAIIC will continue to use the same acronym, but its name has been changed to "South and Meso-American Indian Information Center."

SAIIC's primary objective is to provide information to the general public in the U.S., and human rights and solidarity organizations about the current situations, and struggles for survival and self-determination of Indian peoples of South and Central America.

SAIIC's second objective is to facilitate exchange and promote direct communication and solidarity between Indian people.

SAIIC projects and programs are:

1. publication of the newsletter and other special publications
2. Indian visitors program
3. Human rights advocacy
4. Radio program
5. Public presentations.

"Friends of SAIIC"

Do you have time, talent and skills you would like to contribute to SAIIC? Please consider becoming a part of the "Friends of SAIIC." The concept of "Friends of SAIIC" is to reaffirm new energy and commitment and to establish a diversified working group that would serve as an important body in accomplishing the many and varied tasks of SAIIC's work. If you are interested in any of the following, please contact SAIIC: translation, transcribing, typing, word processing, flyer design/layout, human rights urgent bulletins, housing, babysitting, cultural productions, photography, radio program, graphics, silkscreening, fundraising, or donating art/items for raffles or any other contribution you are willing to share with SAIIC.

SAIIC members meeting at Intertribal Friendship House, Oakland, California.
